Why this project?

For farmhouse and artisan cheese and dairy producers, the quality and safety of their products is an essential issue. Yet, legal requirements set in the European Regulation "Hygiene Package", demand them not only to implement, but also to formalize and prove how they apply food safety principles in their enterprises.

In this context, FACEnetwork (Farmhouse and Artisan Cheese and Dairy Producer's European network) committed itself to carry out a big project in two steps:

1- The elaboration of a community Guide for good hygiene practices (GGHP), specifically dedicated to farmhouse and artisan cheese and dairy producers. This first programme took place in 2015-2016 and it was funded by European Commission. The Guide elaborated was officially endorsed by European Commission and the Member States in December 2016.

2- The second step is now the preparation of a large scale training sessions' programme aiming to accompany the producers in their use of this official sectorial Guide, the TEACHEESY project.

The TEACHEESY project should give to FACE's networks organisations and training centres specific means to prepare suitable training tools and methodologies. With these, future trainers will be able to carry on this big scale and long term training programme, addressed to farmhouse and artisan dairies across Europe.

Teacheesy ... in details

Practical work to be made within TEACHEESY project will take place over 24 months (September 2017 to August 2019), and will consist in the following tasks:

- During the first year, the preparation of the training toolkits and methodologies. The team will meet and coordinate its work in the framework of 4 transnational meetings that will take place in 4 different countries: Germany (October 2017), Spain (January 2018), Bulgaria (April 2018), Finland (July 2018). Between each of these key events, the team will go on exchanging through skype meetings.

- In autumn 2018, 5 training sessions will be addressed to technicians from the Teacheesy partners' organisations in 5 different countries: Spain, Italy, Poland, Germany and France. These sessions will allow the training toolkits and methods just drafted to be used and assessed. Although these sessions will take place in 5 countries only, the technicians from the 9 partner's countries will have the opportunity to participate as trainees and each team member will be invited to participate as trainer in at least one session.

- Early 2019, the training tools and methods will be finalized by the Teacheesy team according to the balance of the "tests" training sessions mentioned above. 2 transnational meetings will take place in the Netherlands between January and March 2019 to coordinate this work.

- From January to August 2019, each partner country will organize an information event in its country, in order to present and explain the outcomes of Teacheesy. These events should launch in each country a bigger scale and long term training programme, on the basis of the work made through Teacheesy.
